JOCKEY LEWIS RODE WELL

By Persistent Work He Landed Benvolio Winner at Alexander Island.

GOOD BETTING WAS THE RULE

Ten Bookmakers Laid Against the Starters and the Pencilers Had Rather the Worst of the Game-Forenzo, at Long Odds, Was the Only Outsider to Earn Brackets.

F Jockey Harry Lewis gave a fine exhibition of riding in the second race at the Alexander Island course yesterday. He had the mount on Benvalio, and at one stage of the journey the latter looked to be helplesely out of it, but Lewis by hard and persistent work landed his mount first three parts of a length before the favorite, Outsrio.

Four of the winners were well played, while Forenzo, at 30 to 1, proved the surprise of the day. Ten books were on, and they all had good business, the attendance being larger than usual. The track was slow but the rac-ing interesting, all of the finishes being close. The instruce was a excellent affair, every starise being more or less backed, Camden, the winner, closing a shade the choice. Sum-contest was full of poor plays on both sides. In the first half the playing was slow and clumsy, the ball being in the visitors' territory most of the time. Leete made the first touch-down, and Shields kicked the goal. The next touchdown was made by Lewis, who was forced through the line very skillfully, and he trotted over the line with indicrons case. Shields again kicked the goal.

In the ascond half, while the field was so dark that the players could not be individually distinguished, the play was much more snappy and brisk, and the next two touchdowns were quickly made by Columbia. Shields failed twice to kick goal and once had a very close call, leaving the score 16 to 0.

Shields third i wice to sick goal and once had a very close call, leaving the score 26 to 0.

In the second half Adam Johnson took Belking's place and Wade succeeded Gagen. The referes was House Janeway, the noted ex-Princeton player: A. P. Schell acted as unpure, and Boyte, of Georgetown, was linesman. The teams lined up as follows:

LICENSE TO BE RETAINED

Virginia Jockey Club Will Not Break Away from the Governing Body of Racing in the East Until the Licensed Limit Has Expired-Sandowne and Darkness' Finish.

Treasurer J. N. Kirk, of the Virginia Jockey Club, said yesterday it had finally been decided by the club to continue the St. Asaph meeting, under the license granted the jockey club, until Decemer 1 as originally contemplated. After that time the license will expire, and the racing will go on independent of any governing body outside the local club. This decision will bar outlawed nonce from racing at St. Asaph until the end of the present month. The present corps of officials will remain until the expiration of the liceuse, and then be succeeded by new men. It is highly probable Secretary McIntyre will take a much needed rest after November 30 and give way to some other person. There has been some friction among the club officials over the matter of protonging the meeting and other questions, but things appear rosy enough on the surface, Yesterday's early morning rain made the track slow, but the weather overhead could not have been improved. The racing was saidy interesting, the flaish in the fifth race being a corker, Sandowne just getting his nose in front of Darkness. The original third race was declared off and an extra affair substi-tured, which proved a gift to Owlet. B. Bradley got second money in the second and sixth races with his mare Panway. Sum-
